REMOVAL.

The Office and Job Printing of Johnson of the New Haven Daily News and Weekly Journal has this day been removed from No. 120 Thames St. The underground papers are now published, and to receive a continuation of the journal already begun upon him.

GEORGE T. HAMMOND,
Editor and Proprietor.

THE DAILY NEWS is issued this morning from our new office, No. 123 Thames St., at which place all business connected with the paper will hereafter be conducted.

For a day or two yet we may be obliged to ask the indulgence of our readers for any defects, either in reading matter or typography. The removal of all the machinery and implements used in printing a daily paper is no easy task, and the labors of our efficient local reporter, who has not yet recovered from the effects of his perilous and severe accident, make it just at present more than usually laborious.

In a few days, however, we hope to be enabled, and to convince our patrons, that we have made a great change for the better. Our new apartments are spacious and convenient, and will allow us to perfect arrangements for making the News a more interesting and valuable paper than ever before. Although the high price of paper deprives us of nearly all profit upon our subscription list, and leaves us to depend upon our advertisements and job-work for recompence, we yet desire to extend the circulation of the News till it shall be inferior to no other paper in the State. For this purpose we shall strive to please before our readers, intelligence as late as can be had in any of the New York papers, and as full as the size of our sheet will allow; and our new arrangements with the Associated Press are such that we can confidently hope to do this in a manner never before attempted by a Newport Paper.

It will still be our object, as before, to present all the local news which can possibly be of interest to the community at Newport, and we shall feel obliged to those of our fellow-citizens who will render occasional assistance to our indefatigable reporter by communicating such items.

It is by the hearty sympathy and co-operation of its readers that a paper like the News is enabled to be worthy of the town. It represents and pleases its subscribers; and the large share of those that have been extended to it since it came into the hands of its present proprietor, he expresses his plainer thanks.

European Affairs.

There seems, since the intelligence of the formation of the treaties with China, to be a great degree of dullness and inaction in European affairs. The great powers are apparently lying on their oars, waiting.

Mr. Micawber, for "something to turn up." And the smaller states are quite too much occupied with their own internal concerns, to trouble either themselves or others with any outward demonstration whatever.

The war in India, though still in progress, has ceased to excite any thing like a general and profound interest in England—whether owing to a fatigued state of the public mind, or to a strong and abiding confidence in the success of the civil and military arrangements now in progress for the pacification of India, does not seem quite clear. At all events, the triumph of the British forces would not seem to be dashed; and nobody in England is looking for any more great battles or protracted wars in that distant country. Queen Victoria having attended the Imperial fete at Cherbourg, and visited her daughter in Prussia, was regaling herself and family at her Scotch castle of Balmoral; and political interest was at about the lowest possible ebb throughout the kingdom. The news of a French invasion were wholly discredited.

The French Emperor, having largely strengthed his army, navy and the extensive defences of the empire, in apparent haste to be ready either for some grand conflict with the neighboring nations, or as a precaution against their united and general onslaught upon himself, seems now to be mainly waiting the current of events. But his character is quite too selfish and unscrupulous to make it safe for either sovereign or their subjects to put full confidence in his professions however fair-seeming and playable—and he will surely escape watching in all quarters.

A new ship has just been launched at Havre which is intended to be moved by a new motive power—that of vapor and hot air generated in a close reservoir.

But Spain is really not much better off than Mexico herself, and we think智者 will content themselves with a wary surface.

Prussia—Austria—Germany—soon the states of Italy, present a scene of uneventful quiet and there is hardly a ripple on the surface in any part of Europe.

THE NEW GALWAY LINE OF STEAMERS.

—THE INDIAN EMPIRE which put into this port for coal last Tuesday, arrived at New York from Galway on Thursday last, making the fifth arrival from that port since the establishment of the line in July last. Mr.
Lever, the projector and chief proprietor of the line who was expected by her did not come. The Pacific, Capt. Thompson, arrived at Galway on the 1st inst. from New York and the Propeller, from Boston, via St. John's, Newfoundland, on the morning of the 20th of September. (A letter from Galway states that the propeller was laid on the ground there, to prevent her from sinking.)

The steamers of the New York and Galway line are henceforth to touch at St. John's, Newfoundland, on their westward passage, thus securing the receipt of news from Europe in six or seven days.

The Boston steamers of the line have touched regularly at St. John's from the beginning.

HON. MATTH. WARD, the chivalrous gentleman who shot an unarmed schoolmaster for punishing a younger son of the same family, and whose claims to distinction rest on that fact and a very stupid and very ill-tempered little bout against England, has become a Senator of the United States.
Gov. Hunnicut of Texas appoints him to fill a vacancy. If the spirit of Aaron Burr does not repudiate an indignant protest against such dawdling of the powers of wickedness in high places, that spirit is no longer the hold, unquailing, arescile Vice President of 1864.

We learn that the body of Captain Thomas L. Bass was found by the pilot boat "Foresight of the Sea," yesterday morning, near where he is supposed to have been drowned, and conveyed to his native in this city.

A FEMALE PURSUIT OF ADVENTURE.

A dashing, hand-some young woman was detected in the streets, a night or two since, in men's clothes. She was out on a tour of inspection, having the natural element of curiosity so strongly developed as to overcome her prudence, and induces her to partake of some adventures of quite an extraordinary character. She was found to be one of those who are foul as well as fair.
Having heard of the sights to be seen by Detroit, had prevailed upon a male friend to accompany her, while she assumed the character of a young gentleman, and took observations, &c. In the course of their perambulations, the major portion of the places of iniquity contained within the city limits were explored, from the tasteless luxurious gambling room in fashion, to the lowest dance house on Macomb street. As might be expected, she was detected in her disguise several times, but managed, with the aid of her friends, to get out of danger. At last, during the latter portion of their explorations, they fell into less scrupulous company, and the bold adventurer was taken into custody by a designing knave, who represented himself as an officer, and modestly requested her to come to jail. She of course remonstrated when he immediately picked her up and started off with all speed, followed by the disconcerted lover. The said officer was finally prevailed upon to parley, and the three sat down on the curb-stone and fixed the thing up, the official receiving fifteen dollars in consideration of letting her off this time, with her promise not to do so any more.— Officer Weyl was yesterday on the track of the swindler, but has not succeeded in arresting him.—Detroit Free-Press.

EXERTED RISE IN LEATHER.—Two pairs of shoes were lately made by a shoe manufacturer in Lynn, to fill an order for a southern plantation. They are intended for a slave, who is also a negro driver or overseer, and measure nineteen and a half inches in length, with a corresponding width.
We presume these shoes were made at so much a foot.—N. E. Post.

The Clerk of Washington county, Tenn., looking over some old records, found the following entry, made May, 1788:—Andrew Jackson, Esq., came into Court and produced a license as an attorney, with a certificate, sufficiently attested, of his taking the oaths necessary to said office; and was admitted to practice as an attorney in this county Court.

DISCOVERY OF A SKELTON.—On Saturday afternoon last, as Asa and George Larkin were out gunning, near the residence of Arnold Illico, in the town of Newtown, they discovered a human skeleton, clothed with coat, pantaloons and shirt.
The clothing was of thin, summer goods.
The skeleton was found in an almost impenetrable thicket, which is seldom frequented. The Conner has been notified.—

Walter Savage Landor has taken up his residence at Genoa, where his family, which is numerous, possess fine estates; and one of the curious effects of the trial is that it has led to a reconciliation between the aged poet and his wife, after a separation of forty years.

In spite of the continued efforts of the American consul and the authorities of the place, the murderers of the American ministers at Jaffa, near Jerusalem a year ago, have not yet been arrested. A commission lately on this subject and adjourned without any hope of finding the guilty parties.

THE LOSS OF THE AUSTRIAN.

Arrival of 42 of the Passengers AT NEW YORK.

IN THE

BRITISH-SPAN-PRIVATE YACHTS.

The British yacht Valorous, Capt. Oldham, arrived at New York on Thursday from Fayal, bringing 42 of the passengers of the stricken Austrian, saved by the French bark Mauritius. The Valorous left England on the 1st of September, for New York, whither she was bound to take Sir W. Gore Ouseley, Special Minister to Grenada, thence to Greytown. But meeting with head winds, she was obliged to put into Fayal on the 23rd for coal. The bark Mauritius had already reached Fayal with the rescued passengers of the Austria, and Mr. Dart, the British Vice-Consul, solicited a passage for them on the Valorous to New York. Capt.
Oldham cheerfully agreed to take them, and Mr. Lane, the Consul, put on board 14 days' provision for their maintenance. The Valorous sailed again on the evening of the 23d, with 42 passengers; the officers of the steamer and the sick remaining behind.

The accounts of the accident given by the passengers, add nothing of importance to what was known before, but confirm the statements as to the utter incompetency of the officers of the ship, and the want of management after the fire broke out.

Theodore Elfield, the most widely known of all the passengers, whose almost miraculous escape we have already chronicled, is not among the present arrivals.

He was anxious to come home on the Valorous, but his physician forbade him, as he was suffering from the effects of his shipwreck. By his advice he will remain on the island until Spring. He sent home letters by the Valorous informing his friends of his situation.

The names are given at length in the New York papers, but the nearly all second-class passengers, unknown in this country.
Of all the survivors, there was not one who had not lost relatives or friends on the stricken steamer. Mrs. Betty Erdmann, who was on her way with her four children to her husband in Charleston, S. C., lost all her little ones. One, a bright little boy, was swallowed up in the flames; three little girls she lashed to a rope and suspended over the side, but the rope was burned through and they fell in the sea. All the women were very much burned, and terribly scars attest the severity of their sufferings. Some of their wounds are still unhealed.

Many fresh incidents are related, but only such as deepen the first impression of horror. One of the passengers says:

"In five minutes after I first saw the smoke the entire deck was in flames. As long as the smoke would permit, the people in the steerage screamed for help. At intervals I saw persons trying to reach the deck. I understood that many of the people were in bed. I saw one woman at the top of one of the hatchways with her arms upraised and calling for help, but she soon seemed to lose her balance and fall back below."

"About 8 o'clock at night we heard many persons hallooing for help. We supposed they were hanging on by life-preservers, but the smoke would not permit us to see them, and therefore could not help them. In the heat with me was a boy who had left Hamburg in company with his father, named G. Wirsching of Ichendorf. As we were sailing toward the Maurice, which we had sighted at 5 o'clock, our attention was directed to a voice at the stern of the boat, it was that of a man, the father of Ichendorf. He was calling out "August, August, are you safe?" The boy at length recognized it as the voice of his father, and informed him that he was safe. The man then said he was content, and committed himself to the deep."

He had performed his part of the contract,

HAMPTON LAND.

NEW ENGLAND SETTLEMENT.

BARR OPPORTUNITY.—TO ALL WANTING FARMS—in a healthy place, twenty-five miles from Philadelphia, on the Camden and Atlantic railroad, New Jersey. An old estate has recently been opened for sale, and the first division of 10,000 acres divided up into farms of twenty acres and upwards. The soil is of the best quality, for the production of fruits, grain, &c. The price is $15 to $20 per acre, payable in easy quarterly instalments, within a term of four years, with interest. The terms are made easy, in order to insure the rapid improvement of the land, by enabling every industrious man to buy a farm. It is now being extensively improved by good roads, and some of the best citizens from New England and the Middle States are securing large improvements. It is a scene of the greatest improvement out of Philadelphia. Seventy-five houses have been built in four months. Practical farmers and business men from the length and breadth of the Union are settling there. It is an important business place, on account of its being in the midst of a great market; every article raised upon this land finds an immediate sale. The water is excellent, and no such thing as fever is known.

The soil is a sandy clay loam, with a deep bottom and retentive of manure. It is free of stones and easily worked. It abounds largely in the phosphates, and each in its fertility has from the crops produced both upon it and the large area adjoining under cultivation, it will be found not to be excelled anywhere in the production of crops most adapted to its market.

The reader may be well aware that the earliest and the best fruits and vegetables come from New Jersey, which are annually exported to the amount of millions of dollars. The land, besides being accessible in every way for fertilizers, has an abundant supply of the best quality of muck manure.

Lumber and building materials can be had on the spot at a cheap price, from the mills. Other mills are now being opened, and brick yards being started on the ground. A person can put up a framework for present convenience for one hundred dollars. On account of the extensive migration, this is the best course to pursue in order to get a place to live in at the first. Carpenters and builders are on hand to put up houses on the best terms.

In settling here the emigrant has many advantages. He is within a few hours' ride of the great cities in the Middle States and New England; he is near his old friends and associations; he is in a settled country, where every improvement and comfort of civilization is at hand; he is in a healthy place, and is not subject to the certainty of losing the greater part of his family and his own health by those malignant forces which make the graves of so many millions of the young and hardy in far-off regions away from home and friends. Besides, he has a mild climate and an open winter.

There are three trains daily in Philadelphia, and to all those who improve the railroad company gives a free ticket. The reader will be at once struck with the advantages here presented, and ask himself why the property has not been taken up before. The reason is, it was never thrown into the market; and unless these statements were correct no one would be invited to examine the land before purchasing. This all are expected to do. They will see the land under cultivation; they will meet persons, no doubt, from their own neighborhood; they will witness the improvements, and judge of the character of the population. Persons should come prepared to purchase, as many are looking, and locations are not held on refusal.

The Hamptons Farmer, a monthly Literary and Agricultural sheet, containing full information of Hamptons, will be sent to each inquirer, and can be obtained at 26 cts per annum.

Title inapplicable. Swain's Decis Glycerin, clear of all incumbrance, when purchased money is paid. Blode to the Land: In the Vine street wharf, Philadelphia, for Hamptons by rail road at 1-1/2 A. M., and at 1-1/2 P. M., when there inquires for Mr. Hayes. Letters and applications can be addressed to S. C. O'GALLAGHAN, 202 South FIFTH Street, Little Walnut, Philadelphia. Maps and information carefully furnished.

W. H. BLISS,
